From Chambers' Journal.

The Old Letter.

I turned the other, one by one; but my courage failed at last, and I scratched this, scoured and yellow, where the fire's breath had passed, I could not let it lie there, for it turned like a thing in pain; And I love it for the old times' sake, that never come again. They used to call me beautiful; I had nothing else beside; There was none more great or wise than he in all the world wide; And it's still a sort of pleasure—very mournful though it be—to know he once could think such thoughts and write such words to me. But my poor beauty faded; 'twas the only thing I had. I was always weak and foolish, and my whole life grew sad, For the cruel blighting fever left me pitiful to see, (Oh, it's true that "Beauty's fleeting") and my love no more loved me. I'd have loved him all the more for that or any grief beside; But, then, he was so different. Oh, if I had only died. And yet how can I wish him to have suffered in my stead? I think it would have grieved him more to hear that I was dead. I have nothing to forgive him; still, he very soon forgot. Now have much to do and think of, that no girls have not. A man has little thought to spare for his own chosen wife; Women's minds are very narrow; and a girl's love is her life. They say I should forget him, but I cannot if I would, For, since my beauty left me, I have tried hard to be good; And his name is always on my lips, when I pray to God above— Oh, surely I may pray for one I can never cease to love! I was never fit to be his wife, even when my face was fair; But every one may pray to heaven; we all are equal there. And God in His great mercy, will not pass my prayers by. I have one thing left to live for—to pray for him till I die.

VARIETY.

Cream on milk is the only article that has not risen of late. Butter is falling in Maine. Grease the track and keep it sliding. Married, in Williamson, Mass., Mr. William Williams and Miss Lizzie Williams. For particulars see small Bills. The leading hotels in Washington have raised their price to five dollars a day for the special benefit of Congressmen. At Chicago the Postmaster has placed at the ladies' window girls instead of young men for clerks. The object is to save time and stop flirtation. They have a colt in Portland, Me., six months old, that was foaled in New Brunswick, and had three legs when it was born. It is conveyed in a carriage. In Burgundy a hare has been shot, between whose ears a horny protuberance some inches long was discovered. It is, in fact, a miniature unicorn. The man who, in consequence of the high price of sugar, attempted to sweeten his coffee with his wife's smiles, has concluded to fall back on the granulated juice of cane. A bale of Cotton at the Central mills, South-bridge, Mass., was opened a few days ago, and found to contain four shells, one loaded, weighing fifty pounds in the aggregate. "The ladies" of Reading go around the streets dressed in gentlemen's apparel. No attempt is made to interfere with this attempt to transform themselves into men. A Boston lady, 70 years old, can repeat all the Psalms and Proverbs by memory, and widow Chase, of Cattyhook, can repeat whole chapters of books read by her in her youth. Her age is 87. The latest export from Canada is a crate of Maltese kittens from Baltimore, which city is said to be suffering from a short supply of the feline race. Whether sausage shops abound in that locality is not stated. A correspondent of the New York Times, in traveling the coast of Florida and Georgia, found a woman who did not even know what a newspaper was. Happy woman! She had seven children and a pipe in her mouth. Two foolish young men were poisoned in Chicago recently. They found a bottle containing some liquid, and thinking it might do them good, drank it. One of them died in a few hours and the other is still very ill. The bottle contained prussic acid. The Boston Daily Advertiser criticising the prediction by British officers that the world will come to an end in 1878, thoughtfully reminds its readers that notes due on the 20th will accordingly be payable on the 19th. A dashing young bachelor lately appeared in Central Park with two handsome ponies, whose tails were done up to look like a lady's waterfall, and cooped up in small fish-tins. The resemblance was capital, and the team created a great sensation. THE MAN WHO WON'T PAY THE PRINTER.—May he be shot with lightning and compelled to wander over gunpowder. May he have sore eyes and a chestnut burr for an eye-stone. May he never be permitted to kiss a handsome woman. May 543 nightmares trot races over his stomach every night. May his boots leak, his gun hang fire, and his fishing-lines break. May his coffee be sweetened with flies and his sauce seasoned with spiders. May he never strike oil, and be continually bled with nothing. May his friend run off with his wife, and his children take the whooping-cough. May his cattle die of murrain and his pigs destroy his garden. May the famine-stricken ghost of an editor's baby haunt his slumbers and his murder in his dreaming ears. May his cow give sour milk and his churn rancid butter; in short, may his daughter marry a one-eyed editor, his business go to ruin, and he go to the Legislature. Amen.
